

Ken Cote grew up in Morristown, New Jersey. After college (Georgetown) and law school (UVA), he joined a law firm in New York City and specialized in corporate finance and securities law. He was a partner and member of the firm's executive committee. From 1998 until 2005 he was managing partner of the firm's Asia Pacific practice and was resident in Hong Kong. Ken and Elizabeth lived in New York City until relocating to Savannah in 2012. He has been a lecturer at St. Peter's.