

My Husband Mike and I moved to The Landings in late 2003 after having lived and worked most of our adult lives in the Connecticut and NYC area. I have two daughters, two stepdaughters, one stepson and 11 grandchildren ages 10-26 that are a pure joy. I went back to school as a young mother and received a PhD in Psychology from Yale. I worked in the NYC foundation world for 15 years at three national foundations overseeing the program, research and public policy work to improve the lives of young children and families in America. I have taught at Yale and Sarah Lawrence College; served on the research faculties of Columbia University and UNC and published articles and edited two books on children and families.

I joined St. Peter's Church in 2004 and have been involved in The Market Outreach fundraiser for eight years serving a co-chair of the Market, Publicity, Charities and the Plant committees. I was also Market Corporate Donors committee chair and hosted the Market Vendor dinner for several years. I have served on the Outreach committee for the past four years; been a member of the search committee for our associate rector; a greeter for the past three years; have periodically co-hosted coffee hour and brought dinner for Family Promise families.

Since coming to Savannah, my volunteer work has been varied and fulfilling. I was a Trustee on the Savannah Country Day School Board from 2005-2013. I served as Secretary; chaired the Education and Student Life committees; created the Little School Child Care Center; served on the Headmaster and Principal Search committees; participated in Strategic Planning Retreats and chaired and wrote reports for two Board Task Forces. In 2007, I co-chaired the Landlovers Tour of Homes; was a Terrapin Turtle Rescue volunteer for six years and a LOVE mentor for five years.

I enjoy playing golf; taking walks, exercising and having lunch with girlfriends. I have learned so much being a member of both a book club and a Bible Study for the past 16 years that I never had time for when I worked full time. I enjoy traveling, especially to see kids and grands who are spread all over the United States and even in London!.
